

KS BANK WELCOMES MATT MCLAMB AS DEPOSIT RELATIONSHIP OFFICER

(SMITHFIELD, N.C.) – KS Bank, Inc. is proud to announce the addition of Matt McLamb as their Deposit Relationship Officer. In this role, McLamb will help the bank generate new deposits while also assisting new cash management customers.

“We’re thrilled to welcome Matt McLamb to our team as Deposit Relationship Officer,” said Earl W. Worley, Jr., President/CEO of KS Bank. “His deep understanding of client needs and commitment to building lasting relationships aligns perfectly with our mission to deliver exceptional service and financial solutions to our business clients and our communities.”

McLamb brings nearly five years of experience working in the financial industry to KS Bank. Throughout his career he has built a strong foundation in client services and banking operations. His previous roles have provided him with the skills needed to serve as KS Bank’s Deposit Relationship Officer, such as the ability to understand and fulfill diverse financial needs, complex problem solving, and client relationship management.

“Matt brings a fresh perspective and proven track record of fostering trust and driving growth. His strategic mindset and passion for helping businesses thrive will be a great asset as we continue to expand our deposit services and strengthen our client partnerships,” shared Travis Bailey, Chief Administrative Officer at KS Bank.

Reflecting on his new role, McLamb shared, “I’m excited to be joining KS Bank and contribute to their strong mission of community banking. Building trust and helping clients achieve their financial goals is what drives me, and I look forward to forming meaningful relationships with our customers and the local communities!”

Originally from Dunn, McLamb currently lives in Clayton with his wife. In his spare time, he enjoys watching college sports, playing golf, pickleball, and spending time with his family.
